1. INTRODUCTION

The Unitary State of the Republic of Indonesia is a country whose territory is divided into states into districts / cities, countries, which are governed by law. The regional government as referred to in the 1945 Constitution adheres to the principle of autonomy and the implementation of regional government affairs and DPRD entirely within the system and principles of the Unitary Republic of Indonesia. Regional development problems are formulated in the preparation of the RPJPD, RPJMD, and RKPD. The formulation of development problems must be able to explain the main problems faced and the root of the problem. Being able to explain the main problems and the root of the problem is one of the bases for formulating regional development policies and regional apparatus. Regional development is largely determined by the potential of a region, so the policies made by the local government must refer to the potential of the region that has the opportunity to be developed [3].

The coaching of RPJMD based on Article 2 paragraph (2) of regulation No. 25 of 2004 concerning the countrywide planning device is a way of countrywide improvement making plans that is systematic, directed, incorporated, complete, and responsive to alternate, which is made in and said in law No. 32 regarding local government in Article one hundred fifty (1) of 2004 It should be stated that nearby improvement plans are made as an vital a part of the national development making plans device when it comes to the implementation of nearby government. The local development plan targets to recognize local improvement inside the context of community income, employment opportunities, enterprise zone boom and honest fairness, access and best of public offerings, and regional competitiveness [4].

Development planning should be implementable and applicable. Therefore, the preparation of development planning should take into account various factors that may have an influence on the success or failure of development implementation [5].

Facing the realities of life that show a welfare gap has resulted in heavy work for development experts, including policy makers. This means that in order to overcome the various problems that arise as a result of the welfare gap, planned development efforts need to be made [6].

Regional Development is a systematic effort in utilising regionally owned resources to increase and equalise community income, employment opportunities, business opportunities, improve access and quality of public services and regional competitiveness in accordance with government affairs which fall under its authority. In the implementation of development in order to achieve efficient and effective goals, implementation guidelines are needed which are outlined in a plan that contains what will be done at a certain time [7].

The Regional Medium-Term Development Plan hereinafter abbreviated as RPJMD is a regional planning document for a period of 5 (five) years and the Regional Government Work Plan hereinafter abbreviated as RKPD is a regional planning document for a period of 1 (one) year. The three planning documents have a relationship, namely the RPJPD is a guideline in the preparation of the RPJMD and the RPJMD is a guideline in the preparation of the RKPD [8].

Regional development problems are formulated in the preparation of the RPJPD, RPJMD, and RKPD. The formulation of development problems must be able to explain the main problems faced and the root of the problem. Being able to explain the main problems and the root of the problem is one of the bases for formulating regional development policies and regional apparatus. Regional development is largely determined by the potential of a region, so the policies made by the local government must refer to the potential of the region that has the opportunity to be developed [9]. The government's role as a development mobiliser is very strategic in supporting the improvement of people's welfare and the economic growth of the country [10].

In its journey, the RPJMD of Minahasa Regency has been published national policies as well as the development of regional conditions that can affect regional development planning. After the 2nd year of the implementation of the RPJMD of Minahasa Regency, an evaluation of the RPJMD results was carried out. Even though socialisation can be done with the media or can be uploaded on the official bappelitbangda site like the previous RPJMD. Whereas community involvement is very important in the preparation of the RPJMD.

2. RESEARCH METHOD

Research Approach, Qualitative research aims to reveal qualitative information so that it emphasises more on process and meaning issues by describing a problem [11].

Research Focus, the research has three research focuses, namely 1) Compilation Cycle 2) Musrenbang activities or community deliberations 3) Development Planning. The research location is at the Bappelitbangda office of Minahasa Regency, North Sulawesi Province.
Data Sources, in this study 2 data sources were used, namely: 1) Primary data, data directly in the field with the data source used 2) Secondary data, research data collected by researchers in relation to documents, reports and books as well as the results of scientific research. Data Collection Techniques

a. Observation, observation is an activity towards a process or object
b. Interview, the process of dialogue between researchers and participants or sources to obtain information.
c. Documentation, namely data collection carried out by examining documents related to the research.

Data Analysis Technique

a. Data Reduction, researchers will collect data and select important key things
b. Data Presentation, helps researchers in compiling research data descriptively
c. Drawing Conclusions, where researchers have almost reached the final stage in data analysis.

Data validity test, in this research using 4 criteria, namely: 1) Credibility, 2) Transferability, 3) Dependability, 4) Confirmability.

3. RESULT AND DISCUSSION

Based on the focus of the research, the following are the results and discussion of the focus that has been determined, namely:

3.1. Cycle of Preparation

Regional development planning is a process of preparing stages involving various elements in it, in order to utilise and allocate existing resources in order to improve social welfare in a regional or regional environment within a certain period of time [12].

Based on the indicators of the Development Cycle, it can be concluded that the preparation of development plans is always based on the preparation and planning procedures and also with the development planning cycle it makes it easier for Bappelitbangda to identify, analyse and also design long-term development, through what must be prepared and the causes and effects that will result from the Regional Medium-Term Development Plan in Minahasa Regency, and those involved in it are of course the Head of Bappelitbangda, staff in the fields and also the community.

In general, development planning is carried out to achieve development goals in carrying out the cyclical process that decides on planning. A plan is an inseparable link between development needs and government implementation. More development is needed, so planning is needed for more of the available resources. There is a plan Formulate various development activities that are efficient and effective You can use the available resources to deliver the best results Develop the available possibilities in development.

3.2. Musrenbang activities or community deliberation

In the implementation of musrenbang, community involvement is a very important factor in the development implementation process itself. The role of the community is not only as an object, but also as the subject of the development. The implementation of the Musrenbang RPJMD; aims to sharpen, align, clarify and agree on the goals, objectives, strategies, policy directions, and regional development programmes that have been formulated in the initial draft of the RPJMD [13].

Based on the Mursenbang Activity Indicators, it can be concluded that the process of joint deliberation after the initial draft RPJMD has been refined and the draft PD Renstra has been verified, then the two are combined and become the draft RPJMD. The draft RPJMD is then used by Bappelitbangda to obtain approval from the Regent to hold the RPJMD Musrenbang. The approval for the implementation of the Musrenbang RPJMD is no later than 70 (seventy) days after the Regent is inaugurated, the Musrenbang RPJMD is carried out and coordinated by Bappelitbangda and attended by stakeholders. The implementation of the RPJMD Musrenbang is no later than 75 (seventy-five) days after the inauguration of the Regent. The results of the RPJMD Musrenbang are formulated in the minutes of agreement and signed by elements representing stakeholders attending the RPJMD Musrenbang, which is attended by the DPRD and the Regent at the same time that the musrenbang information can be accessed by the public through the website that has been provided.

3.3. Planning and Development

Development planning is the beginning of a development process that requires clear time targets. This is due to development priorities that are urgent to actualise, so development planning is carried out in stages starting from the lowest unit of government to the local government [14].

Based on the indicators of planning and development related to the implementation of initial planning has been systematically and the mechanism is based on the manuscript, the inhibiting factors of Bappelitbangda's role in the preparation of the 2018-2023 RPJMD in Minahasa Regency include the lack of discipline towards SKPD data in evaluating the outcomes and outputs of their performance. So that when Bappelitbangda requested data and information from SKPD for the preparation of RPJMD, the submission often missed the specified date, the data collection process for the preparation of RPJMD 2018-2023 began in 2018. Meanwhile, in November 2018 the Regent had just been inaugurated. Because 2018 was not yet over, the basic data used was 2017 data, which should have used 2018 data, then limited human resources, and supporting factors, namely, support from other parties, the strength of rules and solid human resources [15].
